

Code of Conduct and Confidentiality

Training with Olivier Bazin, D.O. — Barcelona

Welcome to this osteopathy training. This course has been designed as a high-level learning environment, in which the quality of teaching, mutual respect and a professional attitude are essential for it to run properly.

In order to ensure a serious, respectful environment aligned with the organisation's quality standards, all participants agree to abide by the following rules throughout the course.

1 Purpose

The purpose of this document is to establish the rules of conduct and confidentiality applicable during the training, in order to ensure a professional, respectful environment suitable for learning.

2 Rules of conduct

The participant agrees to maintain, at all times, an honest, respectful attitude fully appropriate to the training context.

Conduct that undermines the professional nature of the course will not be tolerated, including, among others, flirting, insinuations, interactions of a personal nature, or any behaviour aimed at continuously seeking the teaching staff's attention, or that disrupts the group dynamic or collective learning.

Likewise, all participants are expected to behave in keeping with the professional environment in their language, verbal and non-verbal communication, attitude, personal hygiene and presentation, maintaining a well-groomed image and correct, discreet clothing appropriate for the training and the practical sessions.

The organisation applies a zero-tolerance principle towards any behaviour contrary to these rules.

3 Consent and respect in the practical sessions

The training includes practical sessions between participants. Participation in these sessions is voluntary and based on mutual consent and respect. Any participant may decline a specific practice, interrupt it or change partner at any time, without needing to give a reason.

Physical contact will always take place within a strictly educational framework, with care and professionalism, respecting at all times the limits expressed by each person.

4 Confidentiality and use of images or recordings

The participant agrees to respect the privacy of the other attendees and to maintain confidentiality regarding any personal or clinical information that may be shared during the training.

Photographing, audio or video recording, or sharing images of the sessions, participants, teaching staff or training materials is not permitted without the express prior authorisation of the organisation and the people involved.

5 Right to act

The organisation reserves the exclusive right to assess any situation that could affect the proper running of the course or the maintenance of the required professional environment.

Failure to comply with the rules set out in this document may result in immediate expulsion from the course, with no right to a refund of the amounts paid.

6 Protecting the environment and image of the course

The participant agrees to maintain, at all times, a respectful, discreet attitude in keeping with the professional environment, contributing to the proper running of the course and to maintaining the image, reputation and standing of the training, the organisation and all participants.

7 Data protection

The personal data provided for enrolment and acceptance of this document will be processed by the organisation for the sole purpose of managing the training, in accordance with current data protection legislation. Further information can be found in the organisation's privacy policy.

8 Condition of access to the training

Acceptance of this document is an essential condition for participating in the training, and takes place in two steps: by ticking the box «I have read the code of conduct and accept» during enrolment, and by signing this document before the training begins. Failure to accept or sign will prevent access to the course.

Acceptance

The participant declares that they have read, understood and fully accepted this document, and agrees to respect and comply with all its provisions throughout the training.

☐ I have read the code of conduct and accept the rules of conduct and confidentiality of the training.
